Sunday, March 5 - Sunday, March 12

The Commons has partnered with 24 colleges across southeast Wisconsin to teach college students how to innovate. Now it's your turn!

Join the most talented and motivated high school students from across the region for a free program exploring the innovation process. You'll work on teams, meet local professionals and learn what it takes to create bold, new solutions for real world problems.

If you're a motivated student ready for a unique and challenging experience, apply today. This is not your normal class project!
